

IMPACT OF THE PANDEMIC ON MEASURING PROGRESS OF SDG 16+

LOOKING FORWARD, TACKLING OBSTACLES

Massimo
Tommasoli

Sarah
Long

Haakon
Gjerløw

Toby
Mendel

Ivana Bjelic
Vucinic

Miguel
Angel Lara
Otaola

Anne-
Séverine
Fabre

Panelists' Bios

Massimo Tommasoli is the Permanent Observer for International IDEA to the United Nations in New York and the Director for Global Programme at International IDEA. He holds a PhD (doctorat) in social anthropology from the École des hautes études en sciences sociales in Paris. He worked in the field of aid and development at the OECD/Development Assistance Committee in Paris; at the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Directorate General for Development Cooperation in Rome; and at UNESCO in Addis Ababa. He is a visiting scholar at the LUISS University in Rome and at the City College of New York. He has lectured at various Universities in Italy and Spain, the UN System Staff College in Turin, and at UNITAR in New York. He has fieldwork experience in Colombia, the Horn of Africa, and the Russian Federation.

His publications include: Nel nome dello sviluppo (In the Name of Development); Politiche di cooperazione internazionale (International Aid Policies); Democracy and the Pillars of UN Work; and El desarrollo participativo: Análisis sociales y lógicas de planificación.

Sarah Chamness Long, is the Director for Access to Justice Research at the World Justice Project (WJP), where she leads the WJP's thematic research on civil justice, the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), and environmental governance. Ms. Long has also managed the production of the WJP Rule of Law Index and the administration of the WJP's General Population Poll (GPP) in 126 countries, as well as monitoring and evaluation efforts for 90 WJP seed grants in 60 countries. Prior to her time at the WJP, Ms. Long held a number of program management and research roles with The SEEP Network, The Aspen Institute's Justice and Society Program, and the Center for International Development and Conflict Management (CIDCM). Ms. Long holds an MSc. in Global Politics from the London School of Economics and Political Science and a B.A. in French Language and Literatures from the University of Maryland.

Haakon Gjerl w is a Senior Research at the Peace Research Institute Oslo (PRIO). His research focus on the economic policies pursued by politicians in different political regimes, such as infrastructure development and public goods provisions. He also studies the access to and quality of education provided to refugee populations. Gjerl w has extensive experience with collecting of different types of data, including expert surveys on political institutions, administering large-N surveys, digitalizing historical documents, and programming automated coding procedures.

Toby Mendel is the founder and Executive Director of the Centre for Law and Democracy, a Canadian-based international human rights NGO that provides legal and capacity building expertise regarding foundational rights for democracy, including the right to information, freedom of expression, the right to participate and the rights to assembly and association. Prior to that, he was for over 12 years Senior Director for Law at ARTICLE 19, an international human rights NGO focusing on freedom of expression and the right to information. He has collaborated extensively with inter-governmental actors working in these areas – including the World Bank, UNESCO, the UN and other international rapporteurs on freedom of expression, the OSCE and the Council of Europe – as well as numerous governments and NGOs in countries all over the world. His work spans a range of areas of legal work. This includes having drafted or participated in drafting numerous laws in countries all over the world, engaging in strategic litigation before senior national and international courts, providing training and other forms of capacity building, including to judges and legal professionals, and preparing in-depth analyses of laws and proposed legislation. He is also the author of a large number of articles, monographs and books on a range of freedom of expression, right to information, communication rights and refugee issues, including several books published by UNESCO. Before joining ARTICLE 19, he worked as a senior human rights consultant with Oxfam Canada and as a human rights policy analyst at the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA).

Ivana Bjelic Vucinic is the Programmes and Project Manager at Global Forum for Media Development (GFMD) where she oversees project planning and implementation. Before GFMD, she worked for IREX Serbia Media Assistance Programme as Media Law and Media Associations Program Manager and as Project Manager for Media Centre Belgrade. She also worked as a client manager in finance and administration industry in Canada. Ivana has BA in Journalism and MA in Communication Studies from University of Belgrade and is very passionate about media development

Miguel Ángel Lara Otaola is the Senior Democracy Assessment Specialist in the Democracy Assessment Unit. Miguel Angel leads the Global State of Democracy (GSoD) Indices at International IDEA. Previously, he directed International IDEA's office for Mexico, Central America, and the Dominican Republic, focusing on electoral integrity. His latest project consisted in creating a Global Index on Electoral Justice. Before joining IDEA in 2018, Miguel Angel held several management, research, and field positions in organizations such as the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), the Overseas Development Institute (ODI) in the United Kingdom, the National Electoral Institute of Mexico (INE) and the Electoral Integrity Project at the Universities of Sydney and Harvard. He has participated in over 40 technical assistance and observation missions in Asia, Australia, Europe, and Latin America and has published over 50 articles and chapters on democracy, elections, corruption, and governance in English, Spanish and German.

Anne-Séverine Fabre is a data expert at the Small Arms Survey, focusing mostly on topics related to armed violence and indicators to monitor and assess progress in implementing arms control policies and programmes. Anne-Séverine holds an MLaw in criminology and security from the University of Lausanne and a BA in international relations from the University of Geneva